MAP is pleased to present a
Myers-Briggs Type Indicator Workshop

Wednesday, April 3, 2019
12:30-4:30pm
220, Applied Research Centre, University of Manitoba

The Myers-Briggs type Indicator (MBTI) helps people discover their preferences in how they relate to others, and allows individuals to gain appreciation of their differences. The MBTI helps people identify some key preferences, tendencies, and characteristics. Participants will learn how people differ in their reactions, needs, values, and motivations.

As a result of completing an MBTI assessment and attending this workshop, participants will:
> Clarify their preferences and their MBTI type
> Become aware of their preferred style of taking in information and making decisions
> Articulate how their preferences may impact colleagues and students

Registration:
To register for this workshop, please email
Kelly Carpick <k.carpick@uwinnipeg.ca>

Cost:
No fee for MAP Members (others are welcome to purchase a 2019 membership for $25 in order to join)

Please note:
Maximum of 30 registrants (first come first serve basis) Deadline to register for the workshop is Friday, March 22, 2019.

Presented by Sarah Saunders:
Sarah is an award-winning Student Affairs professional & leadership educator. Over the last 7 years at the University of Manitoba, she has held multiple roles across Student Engagement & Success, including over two years as an academic advisor in the First Year Centre. She is a certified facilitator of the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI), a personality inventory used world-wide to help individuals develop a deeper sense of self-awareness. Using the MBTI, along with her background in Kinesiology, adult education, and student development theory, she builds effective teams and helps individuals recognize their strengths.